I came to Reading Connections because I needed a little bit more push with my math...so I came here for a tutor. What I have accomplished since I've been here with my tutor is, I've gained my GED. I needed a little push because it was Math that was left over... My future plans are to become an apprentice electrician...I also joined the She Built This City (class). It's an apprentice organization that is helping younger ladies and older ladies learn construction trades, so I'm in that program and I am learning those construction trades as well, and I'm going to become an apprentice electrician. It's been six years of push and I finally got here to this designation.
